ANOTHER TIME OF TRANSITION

As we enter into the month of August, we know that, by the end of the month, school will have resumed, and the daily routines of many of us will have changed once again. It may be a great time to look back on the summer and see where we have been.

Although it is usually a good practice to keep looking ahead, there are times that it is important to realize where you have been. It helps us to evaluate our direction. Mountain climbers often pause at certain locations just to take in the view and scope of each section they climb. It does take up some time to stop and admire the view, but even God in His wisdom instructed mankind to "rest." If you make time for that moment of rest before all the changes later in this month, use at least part of that time to reflect.

As a church, we have continued to press on in our mission to help Joplin. There were higher numbers of kids going to camp this summer. The Martin family has now joined us in ministry. Decisions about "mission transitions" have been made. It's actually been quite the summer. How about you personally? What does the view behind you look like spiritually? Has there been progress? Are there any new beginnings that will now continue through the year and your life?

At a time of transition in our society, it is probably a better time to make resolutions than at New Year's. Following the holiday, life goes back to normal with all of the regular patterns that we have had in the previous months. With the changes of August, it might be the best time to make personal changes as well, especially if our daily patterns are changing.

Be careful not to squeeze God out of your schedule as you organize for the coming months. All of our planning, organizing and busy-ness is in vain without Him. -Brad
